SUMMARY

Milton's relatively low minority population is not evenly distributed throughout the Town; the minorities who live in Milton are found, predominantly, in the north/central section of the Town. The reasons for this pattern are not at all obvious. The Fair Housing Committee shall study this pattern to determine if illegal banking, insurance, and realty practices - such as "redlining", "bluelining", and "steering" -- have caused or contributed to the existing pattern. The Committee shall also examine areas of the Town with few or no minority residents to determine if equal access to housing exists without regard to race. The Committee shall consult with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination for assistance in developing additional steps to abolish any illegal housing practices and assure equal access to housing throughout the Town.
